

'Cannonball' Is Unhappy

An angry T.R. Cannon of Sugar Hill said Friday he is "definitely going to sue" over the closing of Mangum Crossing, which he says has cut off his business from traffic. "I built my store there in good faith," he said. His business, Cannonball's Bargain Store (background) is nestled against the bank of the long-awaited overpass that was supposed to be completed last year.

said he was unaware that the grade crossing would be closed with a metal barricade after the overpass was completed.
